COURSE FACTS

It's hard to imagine that the Las Vegas Paiute Golf Resort -- and Pete Dye -- could improve upon the two courses at the resort (Snow and Sun Mountain). But they did. The Wolf takes the Dye experience to a new level with the length from the tips measuring a staggering 7,604 yards. Those brave enough to tee it up back there will experience four par 4s of 490-plus and another listed at 486 yards. For the rest of us, Dye set up a wonderful design that features five sets of tees on every hole, mounds decorated with native wildflowers, generous landing areas and several holes accented by water. The Las Vegas Paiute Golf Resort is built on a beautiful alluvial fan in the desert northwest of Las Vegas on the Paiute Indian Reservation. The serenity of the desert combined with the breathtaking views of Mt Charleston and Sheep Mountain will inspire your game. A spectacular clubhouse with large windows offers dramatic views of the valley. Banquets, weddings and post-tournament receptions are welcome. The restaurant serves scrumptious breakfast and lunch.
